

Aki Puustjärvi, Development manager at HUS IT management, Finland

Aki has been responsible of the technology choices and IT development methodology in the Finnish Virtual Hospital initiative lead by Helsinki University Hospital for the past two years. Earlier Aki has been involved in all sides of IT development in various industries ranging from programming and architecture to business management. Aki holds a Masters degree from Helsinki University of Technology, department of Technical Physics (currently Aalto! University)